DISABILITY MINISTRY IN A SYNODAL CHURCH

St. Ignatius of Loyola Catholic Church - Spring, Texas

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

On behalf of the National Catholic Partnership on Disability, I want to welcome you to our conference, “One Lord, One Faith, One Family: Disability Ministry in a Synodal Church.” Our goal is to provide an opportunity for disability advocates, professionals, and people with disabilities to come together and share ideas and best practices. Catholics across the US have a longing to see parishes be places of belonging for all, including individuals with disabilities, as has been heard throughout the synodal process. Many times, however, parish leaders don’t know where to start. We believe you will hear many ways to address this point throughout the conference. We are honored to have such a talented and experienced group of speakers and attendees, and we look forward to a productive and informative conference. Thank you for joining us!

We will be blessed by a keynote address by the Most Rev. Bishop Brendan J. Cahill, S.T.D., Diocese of Victoria in Texas, and a keynote address by Dr. Joseph White, Director of Catechetical Resources for Our Sunday Visitor Publishing. There will also be numerous breakout sessions, a panel presentation, roundtables, and a plenary address. In addition, we have exhibitors and in-person networking opportunities available to enhance your conference experience that will support catechists, families, caregivers, and more.

Christ's Love Impels Us
(2 Cor. 5:14)

Sixty years ago St. John XXIII in communion with the Catholic Bishops from around the world delivered a 'Message to Humanity' before the start of the Second Vatican Council. This message served as an inspiration and motivation for the work of the Council. Bishop Cahill will trace the background of this address and its influence on the opening days of the Council. This serves as a guide to understand more deeply the teaching at the end of the Council in Gaudium et spes 27: 'the Council lays stress on respect for the human person.' This teaching still can inspire and motivate our work!

Brendan Cahill received a bachelor's degree in psychology and a master of divinity from the University of St. Thomas in Houston in 1985 and 1990, respectively.

Following ordination, he served as parochial vicar of St. Frances Cabrini Parish in Houston (1990-1992) and Christ the Good Shepherd in Spring, Texas (1992-1998). He earned a master's degree in Black Catholic Studies from Xavier University, New Orleans, in 1993, and a doctor of sacred theology from the Gregorian University, Rome, in 1998. Since 2010, he served as director of the Secretariat for Clergy Formation and Chaplaincy Services of the Archdiocese of Galveston-Houston. He was ordained Third Bishop of Victoria in Texas, in June 29, 2015.

Synodality, Disability & the Church: A Foundation for Pastoral Ministries and Engagement

In a synodal Church, all members are welcomed and engaged in its journey, both on the move and in pausing to reflect on progress and concerns. In this workshop we will explore implications of synodality concerning ministry and persons with disability in parish life and practical considerations. This session will provide a useful foundation for all areas of pastoral ministries and engagement. It is based on a presentation given in June at the Italian Bishops' Conference, "Us" NOT "Them": Disability in the Church.

How to Improve Digital Accessibility in your Faith Community

Digital platforms such as websites and mobile apps are a primary way many people expect to receive information and work in business today. For the Church, it is important that all accessibility barriers are removed from digital platforms when evangelizing Christ's message. This session will offer practical advice about ensuring websites and mobile applications are accessible for people with visual, physical, cognitive, and hearing disabilities as well as persons who are Deaf. You will learn several accessibility best practices that Catholic parishes and organizations can use when working with designers/developers or when working with vendors on your platforms.

Creating a Safe and Trusting Learning Environment

Deepening your understanding of neuroscience; the integration of the Central and Peripheral Nervous Systems, 8 Sensory Systems, and the Limbic System, teachers begin to better understand their own behavioral needs and the needs of their students. Applying information shared in the session's hands-on presentation is supportive of creating a safe and trusting learning environment. A learning environment anchored in science provides the safety needed to allow trust. Learning becomes more fluid in all domains; social, emotional, and academics when a child feels safe.

ROUNDTABLES

Join a focused topic discussion during lunch.

Roundtables provide an opportunity to discuss with peers various focused topics in disability ministry. This is an opportunity to network with others in the field, learn new strategies and information, and gain insights from different perspectives. Roundtables are a valuable part of the conference experience, so be sure to participate in one or two during lunch.

There will be various Roundtables available in the Christus Center on the topics noted below. Attendees are invited to bring their lunch to the Roundtable of choice. Don't miss this opportunity to learn from and connect with others who are passionate about disability ministry!

ROUNDTABLE TOPICS & TABLE NUMBERS

1. The Science of Learning and Behavior
2. Hosting Retreats and other Community Events

Catechetical Learning Plans: Tools for Goal Setting and Adaptations for Learners with Disabilities

In order to create a culture of inclusion and meaningful participation in our parishes, it is essential to recognize the individual needs of each student that enters our classroom for catechesis. Using a Catechetical Learning Plan can assist the parish staff and catechist to identify and evaluate the needs of diverse learners in order to make appropriate accommodations. Come learn how these plans work and how to implement them in your parish to better meet the needs of diverse learners in your classroom!

Created for Community and Its Effects on Social and Emotional Health

Humans were created for community, and it is in their DNA when God says in Genesis 2:18, “It is not good for man to be alone,” so he created woman. Community and interaction are paramount to social emotional health. Whether isolation stems from the pandemic or a disability that keeps one at home or from something else, this workshop will explore ways to enhance community driven ministries which build relationships and helps one another to experience the fullness of Christ and his goodness.

FRIDAY PRESENTATIONS: SESSION THREE

Adapting Sacramental Preparation in the Parish Setting

Parishes often struggle to adapt sacramental preparation for persons with disabilities and often will offer the very basics as a result. How do we begin to rethink what it means to accompany persons among us who have disabilities? What does it look like to offer sacramental preparation for all?

Caring for the Lifelong Caregiver

Debra Kelsey-Davis & Kelly Johnson

This session explores the tools, resources and methods that encompass caring for the whole person to better support lifelong caregivers of persons with disabilities. Caregiving across the life span results in caregivers experiencing higher rates of poor physical health and mental health symptoms, as well as reporting more stress and less satisfaction with caregiving. Learn how a holistic approach encompassing the practical, emotional and spiritual needs of lifelong caregivers significantly reduces stress, improves well-being and builds resilience so that they can find the blessings in their caregiving and encounter Christ in unexpected and joy-filled ways.

Gonzaga 210

Hosting a Sensory-Friendly Mass

Barbara Kielaszek

This learning session will provide information for creating an accepting environment for persons with disabilities by providing accommodations during Mass to have meaningful participation and experience in the Eucharistic celebration. We will share resources and best practices to ensure persons with disabilities and their families have access to sensory-friendly Masses or liturgies. Come learn how to coordinate a sensory modified Mass.

Joshua Ruoff

Erin Jeffries

Leo Zanchettin

Disability affects not just the person with the disability, but also their loved ones. For a comprehensive perspective, our panel of speakers includes a catechetical leader with a disability, a father of children with disabilities, and a sibling of a sister with multiple disabilities. The father will share his experiences of raising children with disabilities and the challenges they face in society. The sibling will talk about what it's like to grow up with a sister with a disability, and how they interact with the world. And finally, the diocesan director will share his own unique perspective on serving in this ministry and living with a disability. This is an opportunity to gain a greater understanding of the realities of living with a disability, and to learn how we can all be more inclusive and supportive of those who struggle with societal barriers and sometimes even barriers in our parishes.

NETWORKING SOCIAL

JOIN FRIENDS AND COLLEAGUES

Networking is an important part of any ministry toolkit. It can help you make connections, visit with friends in the field, and learn about new opportunities. That's why we're excited to offer a networking social. This is your chance to meet others in disability ministry and discuss the latest practices and initiatives. Whether you're looking for new ideas or to learn more about what others are doing in disability ministry, we look forward to seeing you at the social.

Better Together: How a Mindset of Inclusion
Benefits the Whole Church

Inclusion of persons with disabilities is part of what it means to be “One Church,” but effective disability ministry requires a paradigm shift for clergy, lay ministry leaders, and parishioners. Together, with a catechetical author and clinical psychologist, we will reflect on what it takes to have an inclusive mindset, what this looks like in practice, and why disability ministry benefits the whole Church – not only persons with disabilities. We’ll also talk about how to navigate potential challenges and pitfalls, including fear of the unknown.

Christus Center

Dr. Joseph White earned his doctorate in clinical psychology from Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, VA. At the Medical College of Virginia, he completed a program in the assessment and treatment of childhood neurodevelopmental disabilities. His pre-doctoral internship in clinical child psychology was completed at the University of New Mexico Health Sciences Center, and his post-doctoral fellowship at Scott and White Clinic.

Dr. White is a member of the American Psychological Association and the Society of Clinical Child and Adolescent Psychology. He is recognized by the National Register of Health Service Providers in Psychology and is board certified in sexual abuse by the American Academy of Experts in Traumatic Stress.

Dr. White’s primary areas of focus include adjustment difficulties, coping with anxiety, phobias and traumatic experiences, sensory-behavioral issues, chronic pain, and concerns about cognitive, social, or emotional development.

Five Tasks of Catechesis for Diverse Learners

The five tasks of catechesis, grounded in the mission of Jesus Christ, serve as the model for Christian life for ALL disciples. Jesus taught his Apostles about the mystery of God and how to pray, he shared himself completely so that they would learn from him, the master catechist, how to lovingly care for ALL members of the community. Guided by the same mission, we are called to embrace Jesus' teachings and especially his love for the vulnerable and marginalized: our sisters and brothers who live with a disability or a diagnosis, visible or invisible.

Using Social Stories to Teach Abstract Concepts to Concrete Thinkers

Social stories are an empirically validated supplemental tool that can be utilized to break down complex subjects areas to make them more palatable for learners of all backgrounds. Important topics such as attending Mass, receiving the sacraments, reciting prayers, and more can all be taught through the use of social stories. This session will teach attendees how to create and implement individualized social stories that can be used to help better educate and empower all learners within the Church.

How Accessible is Your Parish? Use the LAMB (from NCPD) to Create Short and Long-term Goals

Universal Accessible Design is an essential part of establishing a culture of belonging in a parish, but it goes beyond ramps, the layout of the church, and wheelchair accessible bathrooms. NCPD has created an excellent tool called the LAMB Assessment that evaluates language, accessibility, meaningful participation, and belonging in order to enable all people to feel wanted and expected at church. One Lord, One Faith, One Family

As we conclude this conference on disability ministry, we are encouraged to take what we have learned here to make our Church not only more accessible but also a place of true belonging for all. The disability community is our priority, not because they need us, but because a synodal Church can only truly exist when the Body of Christ is complete. The Church needs the gifts that persons with disabilities offer by their very lives. We all have different gifts and opportunities to help make the Church more welcoming. There is no one way, though there is one call received by all to do so. Having heard from many experts and having had the opportunity to share our own experiences and expertise, now is the time to make an even greater difference in our families, parishes and dioceses.

SENSORY-FRIENDLY MASS

5:15 pm Saturday

ONE FAMILY

In recent years the Catholic Church has begun offering sensory-friendly Masses for persons who have trouble processing certain stimuli. Such liturgies are designed to be more accessible and inclusive, and they typically feature dimmed lighting, reduced noise levels, and fidget objects to improve a person's ability to focus. In addition, the liturgy may be shortened, and the homily simplified so that it can be more easily understood. These small changes in sensory-friendly Masses make the liturgy more accessible for everyone and provide an important opportunity for persons with disabilities to participate.

Sensory-friendly Masses typically offer reduced lighting, sounds, and scents.

Speaking of Disability: Pastoral Guidelines on Language

In our fast-paced, constantly-connected world, it's easy to forget that not everyone communicates in the same way. That's why it's so important to be mindful of the language we use when speaking about disabilities.

Speaking of Disability: Pastoral Guidelines on Language is designed to help clergy and other faith leaders navigate these delicate conversations. With sensitivity and compassion, these guidelines offer concrete advice on how to respectfully discuss disability in a way that is both inclusive and empowering.

LAMB - Key features include:

- A comprehensive assessment framework that includes four key pillars: language, accessibility, meaningful participation, and belonging
- A flexible design that can be used in a variety of programs
- A user-friendly interface that makes it easy for ministerial staff to assess parish offerings and identify strategies to implement consistent design.

ROMAN MISSAL Third Edition
LARGE-PRINT FORMAT

NCPD has prepared large-print formats of the official text of the Roman Missal Third Edition. It is available in printed font sizes of 24 and 34. These large-print versions will equip priests and deacons with low vision to celebrate Mass.

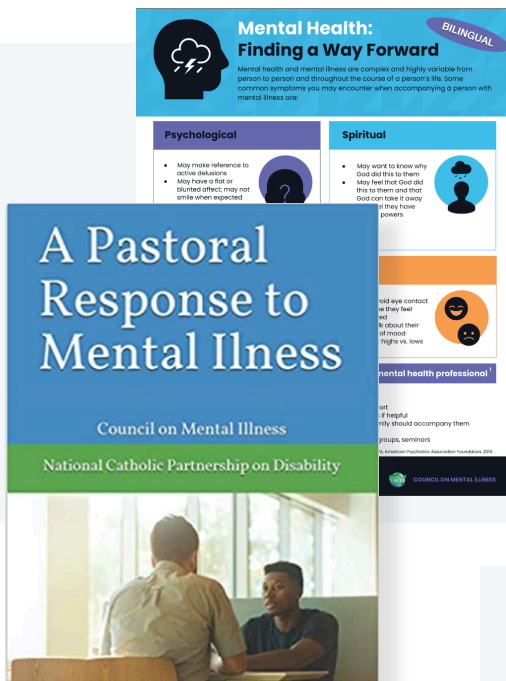

The Roman Missal, Third Edition is also available on CD in font sizes 24, 34 and 44. The CD contains pdf files of all three font sizes. It allows one to printout a complete file or selected pages.

For more information contact NCPD at ncpd@ncpd.org or visit ncpd.org/roman-missal.

NCPD LARGE-PRINT ROMAN MISSAL AND LECTIONARY

The large-print Roman Missal includes a red binder suitable for the altar, with tabs and ribbons. A large print lectionary is also available, on CD only, in font sizes 24, 34 and 44.

Large-print Roman Missal are a solution for priests who have low vision. The large font size makes it easy to read, and the pages are organized into storage binders so that they can be assembled into an altar appropriate red binder for each liturgical season. The Missal comes in two sizes, 23 and 34, so priests can choose the one that best fits their needs. A CD version is also available with a 44 font size. Also a large-print lectionary in the three fonts sizes is available on CD.
